

WEDNESDAY IS LAST DAY TO ENTER YOUR SERVANT FOR PRIZE

All Competitors' Names Must Be in Mrs. Briggs' Hands by That Day.

MANY SEEK TIMES AWARD

Longest Service Award Attracts Many Employers of Domestic.

Wednesday will be the last day upon which entries may be made for The Times' prize in the domestic service contest under the auspices of the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs.

All entries must be in the hands of Mrs. J. Edson Briggs, chairman of the home economics committee of the federation by that date, or they will not be considered.

For that reason employers who wish to enter domestics will do well to direct their letters to Mrs. J. Edson Briggs, 1300 South Carolina avenue southeast, and not to other individuals or newspapers.

Seek Times' Prize.

By far the largest number of entrants now in are competitors for the Times' prize, the first offered in the competition, for the longest continuous service under one mistress.

There also are a number of contestants for another $10 prize for the domestic longest in the service of a family for two or more generations.

The special prizes, those for former slaves, and those for men in domestic service, also have aroused considerable competition.

Discussion of the methods of awarding the various prizes will take place Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when Mrs. Briggs will meet her home economics committee.

Tabulating Entries.

Miss Ellen Marshall Rugg has undertaken the work of tabulating the entries. An inquiry into the exact facts about each term of service will be made before the prizes are awarded.

Members of various clubs, notably the Housekeepers' Alliance and the Twentieth Century Club, are taking a keen interest in the competition.

The contest is only a preliminary in a movement of clubwomen to study the servant problem in Washington with a view to bettering conditions of domestic service. The information they will get by the testimonials in the competition is expected to be valuable in this survey.

HYATTSVILLE.

The Citizens' Temperance Union yesterday decided not to ask for a recount of the votes on prohibition. Reports from all the election districts show no possible chance for a change in the result.

The temperance union planned to go before the next legislature and endeavor to pass a bill providing for prohibition for the county without having it submitted to the voters. Failing in this it will endeavor to secure another vote.

The following officers were chosen: President, Dr. Clarence J. Owens; vice president, Frank M. Stephen; secretary-treasurer, Allen M. Mallory.

President Harry J. Patterson, of the State College of Agriculture, and a committee of the faculty will entertain the prize winning corn and potato club boys, who will arrive from Washington at the college Thursday.

The Holy Name Society of St. Jerome's Catholic Church here attended mass this morning in a body.

The Epworth League, of the Forestville Methodist Church, began a week of "Win My Chum" services today.

Miss Marian Evelyn Starks, of Boston, will give a dramatic interpretation of the play "Merely Mary Ann" at the Methodist Episcopal Church at Cheltenham Tuesday evening.

Funeral services for Mrs. Matilda V. James, seventy-two years, who died here Thursday at the home of her son, G. Sherman James, will be held tomorrow at 11 a. m. from her late residence. Interment will be in the Congressional Cemetery, Washington.

The Hyattsville Democratic Club is preparing to celebrate the re-election of President Wilson with a banquet.

MRS. BEUTINGER IS HYSTERICAL IN JAIL

Charges Freeholder Denounced Her Harshly When Board Inspected the Institution.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 12.—Judge William P. Martin and Jacob L. Newman, prosecutor, are investigating the story that Ernest E. Ryman, director of the board of freeholders, told Mrs. Margaret C. Beutinger he would have convicted her of the murder of her husband had he been on the jury.

The allegation further is that Mr. Ryman spoke so harshly to her that she became hysterical in her cell and required medical attention. The incident occurred when the freeholders made an official inspection of the jail.

"I did speak to her. I said that if I had been on the jury I never would have voted to acquit her," Mr. Ryman said when the matter was brought to his attention. He would add nothing to this.

Mr. Ryman went to the jail the day after his re-election as a freeholder in company with other members of the board.

Mrs. Hazel Fish, matron, accompanied him when he went to the large cell room where Mrs. Beutinger is kept. It is alleged that he addressed her in vigorous terms and that he told her she ought to suffer the extreme penalty for the crime which she said she committed in self-defense.

Mrs. Beutinger sent for Robert H. McCarter and Walter G. Brandley, her counsel, when she recovered from her hysterics, and told them.

They laid the matter before the prosecutor and the judge. In fear that it would result in trouble in obtaining a jury for the second trial it was kept quiet. The prosecutor admitted that he knew of it, but refused to say what action would be taken. He did not deny the story as told to him.

Mrs. Beutinger's retrial is to begin November 20.

A petition signed by a number of women was presented to Mr. Newman asking him not to oppose any motion that might be made to admit her to bail pending her second trial.

The petition was given to the prosecutor by Elizabeth C. Sullivan and Laetitia H. C. Gordon Smith. Mr. Newman advised them that he would have to do his duty and oppose any such motion.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Chin Ah, Japanese, was a good butler. He saw and heard nothing, until one day. Then as he polished wine goblets he there saw the reflection of the mistress, Mrs. George Saxton Barber, kissing and hugging a man who wasn't her husband.

On that evidence today, Barber, wealthy nephew of the late Mrs. William McKinley, obtained a divorce, while charges of Mrs. Lillian Geissenheimer against her husband, who was the co-respondent named in the Barber case, still are pending.

POTATO ASSOCIATION TO EXHIBIT TUBERS

Annual Meeting Opening Tomorrow at National Museum Will Discuss Types.

Beginning tomorrow, the National Potato Association of America will hold its annual meeting in the New National Museum.

The meeting this year will be given over to exhibits, motion picture illustrated lectures and speeches on subject pertinent to the better growth and development of the potato. It is hoped that those interested in this subject will arrive at some definite understanding relative to the types and market grades of potatoes. It is thought that a large number of States will be represented.

The exhibit will consist of typical tubers from various sections of the United States, representing the leading commercial types of the vegetable, samples of graded table stock certified seed stock and manufactured potato products, including specimens of chuno, a dried potato product of Peru and Bolivia. The conversion of the potato into the dried article, known as chuno, is supposed to have been practiced for centuries prior to the subjugation of the Incas by the Spaniards.

Among the features listed on the program will be a discussion of market grades and standards, by H. R. Talmage, of Riverhead, N. Y.; a lecture on modern methods of potato culture in this country and abroad, by F. D. Sweet, of Denver, Colo.; illustrated with motion pictures, a lecture on the potato industry in South America, by W. F. Wight, of the Bureau of Plant Industry, and a discussion of what science has added to the knowledge of factors concerning the diseases of potatoes.
